What we do?

The Community Engagement Officer (CEO) is responsible for community engagement, media relations and acts as a school liaison while sitting on numerous committees.

The CEO role falls under the Crime Prevention Community Safety Bureau (CPCSB).

Where we are?

We attend events, information sessions, parades, fundraisers, school functions, bike rodeos, career and community fairs, etc., with our community partners and shareholders throughout Middlesex County

You never get a second chance to make a first impression

Members of the Middlesex County Ontario Provincial Police (OPP) attended, presented and partnered at just under 250 events since January 1, 2024.

Thousands of individuals from our community observed our OPP brand at events, fairs, presentations, school events, conferences, etc.

Why is company branding swag important?

Company swag refers to products with a company's logo or branding. Items include t-shirts, pens, stickers, stress relievers among many others. Companies use corporate swag as part of a marketing strategy to increase brand visibility and in the case of the OPP it can be used as an ice breaker at events. When done right, swag creates a memorable impression on customers and employees.

The positives of swag:

Recruitment: OPP swag can be used as a recruitment tool to attract top talent to the police service.

Confidence in a brand: Swag items can also build brand awareness and confidence. When people see others wearing or using OPP branded swag it can help gain positive visibility, recognition and confidence. This is especially important for a police service as unfortunately, not all encounters are positive.

Swag will boost your presence at an event: One of the most popular ways to give out swag is at events, fairs, school events, presentations and conferences. With good swag, foot traffic increases.

Ontario Investing in Mobile Crisis Response Teams to Better Protect Communities

October 28, 2025

Funding will help police in Middlesex County support people experiencing a mental health crisis

NEWS

MIDDLESEX COUNTY — As part of its plan to protect Ontario and keep communities safe, the Ontario government is enhancing public safety by investing $240,000 over two years to support the mobile crisis response team led by Middlesex County OPP. The funding will enable police to work with trained crisis workers to provide the specialized support often needed when interacting with people who are experiencing a mental health-related crisis.

"This investment will make a real difference for families and first responders across Middlesex County. By strengthening the partnership between the Middlesex County OPP, Strathroy-Caradoc Police Service, and mental health professionals from local organizations like the Canadian Mental Health Association Thames Valley, we're ensuring that people in crisis receive compassionate, appropriate care when and where they need it most. This collaborative approach helps protect our communities, supports frontline officers, and connects vulnerable individuals with the help they deserve," said Steve Pinsonneault, MPP for Lambton-Kent-Middlesex.

they need to keep our communities safe," said Solicitor General Michael Kerzner. "Through this grant, we are equipping police services with the means to strengthen Mobile Crisis Response Teams—made up of police and crisis workers—who are uniquely positioned to respond to people experiencing a mental health or addictions crisis, de-escalating situations that could threaten public safety while connecting vulnerable individuals with the support they need."

For 2025-26 and 2026-27, 36 police services and OPP detachments will receive approximately $9 million through the Mobile Crisis Response Team Enhancement Grant to increase the capacity of mobile crisis response teams across the province.
